

The Indiana telephone privacy law has been the best thing to come along in a long time in protecting the privacy of Indiana residents. I am absolutely opposed to any attempt at diluting or weakening this law. I certainly would not want any businesses I have dealings with to call me any time they wished.